

STATESMEN STUDY CRISIS IN GERMANY

DIPLOMATS OF FIVE NATIONS ASSEMBLE IN PARIS FOR CONFERENCE

MELLON AND STIMSON PRESENT

Meeting to Extend Over Week End
In Effort to Alleviate Impending
Financial Crash

PARIS, July 18, (UP)—Paris was the capital of Europe today, with leading statesmen gathering here for a hastily arranged conference on economic and political problems growing out of the German financial debacle.

Members of the governments of five nations—the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy—will hold conversations over the week end in an anxious effort to solve these problems.

Seldom has so rare a spectacle of cabinet ministers hurrying from capital to capital been witnessed. Only a crisis of extreme importance, it was admitted, could have determined the governments, including America, to break away from the customary channels of negotiations through ambassadors.

The United States was represented by secretary of state Henry L. Stimson and Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury—admittedly two of the ablest members of the Hoover administration.

The German statesmen are Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and his foreign minister, Dr. Julius Curtius. Their presence here marks the first time since Bismark that a German chancellor has come to Paris officially while in office.

Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, represents Great Britain. Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, will represent Italy and Premier Benito Mussolini. Grandi is due tomorrow. Premier Pierre Laval, Aristide Briand, foreign minister, and Pierre Etienne Flandin, finance minister, will be the chief French ministers seated around the conference table.

Another significant development in a harassed week which has culminated in this parley, it was pointed out, is not only America's participation but her leadership in these efforts to solve a European political and economic situation. European statesmen hail President Hoover's moratorium plan and the subsequent European tours of Mellon and Stimson as an indication that the traditional policy of isolation has been definitely discarded, without announcements of fanfare but by the simple expedient of action.

J. T. Horne Dies At Tampa, Florida

MRS. U. V. O'DANIELS RECEIVES
WORD OF BROTHER'S DEATH
TODAY

Mrs. U. V. O'Daniel, east Seminary street, received word of the death of her brother, J. T. Horne, age 71 years, of Tampa, Fla., who died Saturday morning following an operation.

The deceased was born and reared in Cloverdale and was the son of William Horne. He was the owner of the Park theater at Tampa and was also connected with the Tuscaloosa Lumber and Veneer Company at Tuscaloosa, Alabama. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at Tuscaloosa.

Marion Twp. Boys Will Broadcast

MAYNARD ROBINSON AND CLIFF-
FORD PHILLIPS TO GIVE PRO-GRAM OVER WKBF

Many Marion township and Putnam County radio fans are expected to tune in on station WKBF in Indianapolis next Tuesday noon at 12:15 o'clock when Maynard Robinson, of east of Fillmore, and Clifford Phillips of Fillmore, broadcast a fifteen minute program of songs and instrumental numbers.

Both young men are splendid singers and players of the ukelele and guitar, and are expected to make a hit with radio fans of the Indianapolis station in their initial appearance. They will give their program from the office of Craggs-Reynold-Taylor in Crawfordsville, from where the program will be broadcast over WKBF.

CARS DAMAGED IN AVOIDING A CRASH

Automobiles driven by Basil Baldwin, who lives at the corner of Jackson and Beveridge streets, and James Shafer, who lives on south Indiana street, were damaged in trying to avoid a crash at Indiana and Hanna streets, Friday evening.

Baldwin drove his Ford car into a pole with terrific force in avoiding the crash while Shafer drove his car over a corner street marker and through a hedge fence in the A. J. Duff yard, in escaping a collision.

It was said occupants of both automobiles escaped without injury.

BENCE FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services for James Philip Bence, who died Thursday evening at the home of his son, John Bence, north Madison street, were held from the Antioch church Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. B. H. Bruner was in charge. Interment was in the Boone-Hutcherson cemetery.

The pall bearers will be Charles Hutcherson, Roy Hutcherson, Ena Hutcherson, Ott Hutcherson, Dave Cox, and Harry Sutton.

CREDIT GROUP SESSION SET FOR JULY 27

IMPORTANT MEETING IS AN-NOUNCED. NEW BOOK ABOUT READY

The Putnam County Credit Association is making plans for a dinner meeting to be held at the Country Club on Monday evening, July 27. It will be a strictly business meeting and the proposed new rating book which will soon come out, will be gone over thoroughly during the evening.

The list of names which will go on the book, will be gone over during the meeting and the whole affair will be an open discussion. Letters to this prospective list are also going out and it is believed many responses will be received before the meeting date.

This meeting promises to be one of the most important that the Credit Association has ever held, and in all probability, it will be attended by practically the entire membership. The date is Monday, July 27.

CONTINUE EFFORT TO CATCH BAKER

SHERIFF LEAVES ON MYSTER-
IOUS TRIP TO INDIANA
CITY

Another effort to capture LeRoy Baker, of Indianapolis, wanted in connection with the theft of an automobile and an attempted robbery at Roachdale early Tuesday morning, was made Saturday when Sheriff Alva Bryan left for an unannounced destination, where it was reported Baker was hiding out.

Sheriff Bryan hoped to secure the assistance of authorities at the place where Baker was hiding, in making an arrest. If Baker is apprehended he will be returned to Greencastle to explain the presence of his Ford coupe, which was left behind when bandits were surprised as they attempted to enter the Faller Clothing store at Roachdale.

JAIL ESCAPE CAUGHT HERE

LEE KENDALL HELD FOR AUTH-ORITIES AT MOORHEAD,
KENTUCKY

Lee Kendall, 42 years old, head of a family of eight children, was taken into custody on the William Hutcherson farm in Washington township, Saturday morning, by city police, on a charge of escaping lawful custody at Moorhead, Ky.

According to the city marshal, authorities at Moorhead sent him a warrant for Kendall's arrest for escaping jail at that place about ten months ago.

Kendall was said to have been bitter over his arrest, claiming he was "railroaded" to jail at Moorhead. He will be held here until the arrival of officers from Kentucky.

City police said Saturday afternoon that Kendall had not as yet decided whether he would fight extradition to Kentucky.

THE AUTO THAT WE INVENTED IN OLDER DAYS

IT WAS A STEAMER AND THREW A FIT AT POOR
TIME

HARRY ALLAN'S TWO-CYLINDER

Warned Against More Than Twenty Miles Per Hour By the Manufacturers

Greencastle was once on its way to fame as a city of inventors, for several reasons, but the particular one which this anecdote concerns was our own patent-applied-for steam automobile. It ran, but not long enough. It was in the days of Carl Bell, Henry Renick, George Blake and Alfred Hirt. Carl was the inventor and the others were the promoter and financiers.

Carl's steam wagon reached completion, amid the deepest interest of the city's folks, and, as was their due, the promoter and financiers received the treat of being its first passengers, on its demonstration trip around town. They were a proud bunch, as their vehicle puffed its way out toward Hanna street, with them aboard.

But, headed east on Hanna between College avenue and Locust, there was, and is, a slight rise, so that the machine stopped at the beginning of the grade upward (a few inches climb) to get up steam. There is, in such engines a happy pausing point between enough and too much, in the way of steam pressure. Carl, in his enthusiasm, overran the pause, and the safety plug of the boiler blew out, with a terrific roar.

Out leaped the promoter and financiers, and the deal was off. They thought the boiler itself had gone up. The greatest difficulty lay in the impossibility of generating steam at a working pressure, steadily. It had a gasoline heater, which could not be given sufficient capacity. The machine was finally abandoned.

"Yes, There Was Some Vibration"
"In 1909," said Harry Allan, "we lived near Shelburn, south of Terre Haute. My father-in-law bought a two-cylinder Maxwell, which bore a plate with the warning 'Do not drive faster than twenty miles an hour.' It was a useless warning. We were about 21 miles from Terre Haute, and, one day when we drove there in a little over an hour, we bragged of our great speed. Yes, there was some vibration," Mr. Allan added.

"How'n Heck" Indeed

Andrew Durham is credited with fathering this story:

Up in Russell township, one of the first purchasers of an automobile was an old gentleman, who was, even at that, a live wire. He mastered the rudiments of starting the machine, and at once loaded in two of his cronies. Down the road they flew, their beards flying back over their shoulders. However, the driver's course of tuition had not fixed in his mind the manner of stopping the automobile. So, after coursing down a long hill, he headed "er into a tree. The two guests took the sudden spill as a matter of routine for autoing, but, as he picked himself from the ground, one of them remarked:

"Lije' that sure's fine riding, but, how'n heck do you stop 'em when there ain't no tree?"

The Big If

This is another credited Senator Durham anecdote:
Mr. Durham once took a party of school teachers to Spencer—or maybe they were church ladies. Anyway, whoever it was, he did what he could to make the trip over the beautiful road yet more attractive, and, going down one of the long hills, he added the thrill of speeding, or what his passengers thought was speeding. One of them leaned over and inquired:

"Andrew, do you think this is safe?"
And Andrew replied:
"Yes, Aunt Martha, it's safe—just as long as the brakes hold!"

ALLOWED $1,050 CLAIM AGAINST CHATHAM ESTATE

Rosella Miller has been allowed a claim of $1,050 against the Sarah A. Chatham estate, in the Putnam circuit court. The claim was for nursing and caring for the deceased for a period of seventy weeks at $15 per week.

THE WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; Not quite so warm in north portion tonight.

ATTORNEYS ATTEND BAR ASSOCIATION PICNIC MEETING

A number of Greencastle attorneys were at Turkey Run Saturday for the annual meeting of the Fifth District Bar Association outing and picnic. Among those going were Judge James P. Hughes, C. C. Gillen, Charles McGaughey, William M. Sutherland and Roy Sutherland.

PILFER SORORITY HOUSE

Considerable damage was done at the Kappa Delta sorority house, 110 Taylor place, by vandals who have turned the contents topsy-turvy and removed a number of valuable articles including silverware. City police said Saturday that most sorority and fraternity houses are protected during the summer by caretakers, but that the Kappa Delta house was left vacant this summer, resulting in the opportunity for vandalism.

JOINT SCHOOL BAND PROVES TO BE POPULAR

BAINBRIDGE AND ROACHDALE
MUSICIANS GIVE CONCERTS
AT TWO TOWNS

A combined Roachdale and Bainbridge band, composed of young people from both communities who are trained under the direction of Floyd Thompson, of Indianapolis, are proving decidedly popular in the two communities where they give regular concerts. At present the band is composed of 46 musicians, most of whom are still in the grades.

The next concert by the combined band will be given at Roachdale Saturday night, July 25. A concert was given at Bainbridge Wednesday night of this week.

Mr. Thompson gives each group one lesson a week in the two towns and they then get together for a rehearsal at stated intervals.

Both communities have shown a fine spirit of cooperation in supporting the band. Both Principal Albert Heavin of Bainbridge and Principal Eugene Hutchins of Roachdale are in the band and help the groups along.

Because most of the musicians are grade pupils there is a fine opportunity for many of them to develop into splendid players of the various instruments.

Heat Fatal To Farm Inmate

GEORGE WEST, 41, SUCCEUMBS
EARLY SATURDAY MORNING
FOLLOWING PROSTRATION

George West, 41, died at the Indiana state farm, Saturday morning at 2:45 o'clock of heat prostration. His home was formerly in Vincennes.

The body was removed to the McCurry Funeral Home in Greencastle and Saturday afternoon was taken to Vincennes for burial.

RELIEF FROM HEAT PROMISED

COOL WEEK END IS FORECAST.
MANY CITIES STILL HAVE TEMPERATURES OVER 100

CHICAGO, July 18, (UP)—Relief from the parching heat lives which took more than a score of lives and caused severe crop damage as it swept the midwest this week, was promised today by United States weather experts.

Assistant forecaster W. P. Day of the Chicago weather bureau said a break in the scorching temperatures began throughout the plain states yesterday and that by tonight the intense heat would be definitely routed for the week end at least.

Showers and cloudy weather accompanied by cooling breezes were predicted generally today for the entire area. The cooler weather would continue over tomorrow, Day said.

Although temperatures in most sections were lower yesterday, several cities reported continued high thermometer readings. Phoenix, Ariz., was the hottest place in the country with a temperature of 110; south Bend reported 108 and Fresno, Calif., 102 degrees. The following cities had temperatures of 100: Detroit, Fort Wayne, Springfield, Ill., Miles City, Mich., and Aurora, Ill.

Eight deaths were caused by the heat in Chicago and numerous prostrations were reported from cities throughout the midwest.

WORLD FLIERS TALK BY RADIO TO AUSTRALIA

POST AND GATTY CONVERSE WITH SIR KEITH-SMITH
LAST NIGHT

DISCUSSES HISTORIC FLIGHT

Americans Who Circled Globe In Eight Days Tell Australians About
Speedy Trip

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 18, (UP)—The round the world fliers, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, held a round the world conversation this morning with Sir Keith-Smith in Australia.

A short wave, two-way hookup between W2XAF, the General Electric station here, and 2ME, Sydney, was broadcast through WGN and NBC stations in this country so that thousands were able to hear Keith-Smith interview his fellow-countryman, Gatty, and reveal a hitherto undisclosed incident in which the fliers met an English girl at Khabarovsk, Siberia.

"What's this I hear about you meeting a girl at Khabarovsk?" Keith-Smith inquired after congratulating Gatty.

"Oh, somebody's been telling you things," Gatty replied, laughing. "She was an English girl of 16, born in London but who went to Siberia at the age of 10. She spoke English with a mixture of a Russian and a cockney accent, but she was the only one in the crowd who could speak English." After aviation officials in Australia had introduced the flier who flew the Pacific, Keith-Smith congratulated Gatty on the trip.

"We've all been interested in you in Australia and were happy that you completed your magnificent flight. Those of us with a knowledge of aviation, knowing the difficulties you encountered, consider it as all the more wonderful."

"Are you likely to come to Australia soon?"

"Yes, I expect to, before long. I am going to come out there with my wife and children," Gatty said.

"Are you going to fly?"

"No, I don't think so."

"Have you any other plans?"

"No, not at present. In fact we haven't had time to make any plans since we arrived."

Keith-Smith then asked about the weather on the flight.

"It was bad on the whole, with high winds and fog," Gatty went on. "The Siberian part was the worst."

"How about the landing fields in Siberia?"

"There were none at all. There was no place at all to sit down."

Keith-Smith asked to speak to Post and Gatty, in introducing him paid tribute to him as "one of the greatest pals in the world, even though he isn't an Australian." He referred to Post as the "wild man from Oklahoma."

Post, who has been very taciturn in speaking or answering questions since his return, was equally reticent before the microphone.

"I'm glad to meet you over the radio," Keith-Smith said. "I hope you come to Australia soon so I can meet you personally. What are your plans now?"

"Well, we're beginning a tour of the United States," Post replied.

Keith-Smith also congratulated Post, but the conversation lagged and he asked to speak to Gatty again.

It was then Gatty told about the chance meeting with the English girl at Khabarovsk, the fliers' last stop before crossing the Bering sea to Nome and America.

"I wish you would thank the folks out there for their telegrams," Gatty concluded. "And thank my mother and father, who, I believe, are listening in."

"I will, and all sorts of good luck," was the concluding message from Australia. "Good night."

WILL ATTEND CONFERENCE

PRINCIPAL ALBERT HEAVIN TO GO TO DENVER FOR WORLD
FEDERATION SESSIONS

Albert Heavin, principal of the Bainbridge schools, will leave with his family next Tuesday for Denver, where he will attend sessions of the World Federation of Education, July 27 to August 1.

Mr. Heavin attended this event in Switzerland two years ago, becoming interested in the event. Noted educators from all parts of the world will attend.

STULTZ FUNERAL SUNDAY

Funeral services for James F. Stultz, father of Mrs. Marshall Snider of Greencastle, who died Friday morning at his home at Ladoga, will be held from the home Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock in charge of Rev. Stanley Hall. Burial will be in the Hartman cemetery near Fincastle. Mr. Stultz was a Civil War veteran and infirmities of advanced age caused his death.

He was born in Putnam County on November 14, 1843, the son of William and Kathleen Stultz. He was married to Mary E. Hartman on September 26, 1866. He served in Company K, 11th regiment of the Indiana volunteers during the War of the Republic.

Surviving are two sons, James of Pershing, and Thomas of Ladoga, and one daughter, Mrs. Snider of Greencastle. Six grandchildren also survive.

TEN DEEDS ISSUED IN PAST WEEK

TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY SHOW
DECREASE AT RECORDER'S OFFICE

Ten deeds transferring Putnam County real estate and lots, and several easements and right-of-ways granted the Indiana Electric Corporation, the Ohio Gas Company, and the Golf Pipe Line Company by Putnam County property owners, were filed during the past week, according to records in the county recorder's office. Deeds showed a marked decrease over the previous week when twenty-five were filed.

Real estate transfers during the past week were as follows:

James Rice Turner, to David W. Attnan, lot in Oak Hill Knoll Park, $50.

Cecil Carpenter and wife, to Harry E. Job, 3 1-2 acres in Greencastle township, $1.

William Arnold and wife, to Belle Irene Gautier, lot in Greencastle, $1.

Louisville Joint Stock Land Bank, to Joseph A. Smith and wife, 100 acres in Monroe township, $1.

Charles W. Young and wife, to Phoebe Young, lots in Roachdale, $1.

Thomas Young and others, to Phoebe Young, 2 lots in Roachdale, $1.

Carl W. Roll, to Mary E. Karry, 40 acres in Warren township, $1.

Thomas C. Day Co., to Helen A. Wilhelm, 20.25 acres in Cloverdale township, $1.

John O. Broom and wife, to Hettie Hostetter, 12 acres in Franklin Twp., $1.

Hugo Mann and others, to Emil Mann and others, 20 acres in Madison township, $1.

Fire Destroys Large Barn

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION
BLAMED FOR BLAZE SOUTH-
WEST OF MT. MERIDIAN

Spontaneous combustion believed caused by new oats on old clover hay, started a fire which destroyed a large barn on the Charles Scott farm, three miles southwest of Mt. Meridian, on the road leading north from the Jim street road, about 8:30 o'clock Friday evening.

In addition to the hay and grain in the farm the fire destroyed a quantity of farm harness and some farming machinery and tools. A horse in the barn, belonging to Clarence Cummings, was badly burned before it was rescued and was expected to die. Another horse was guided out of the burning structure to safety.

It was said that eighteen loads of new oats hay had been put in the barn on top of old clover hay recently, and this was believed to have caused spontaneous combustion.

The flames were visible for several miles in all directions and attracted quite a crowd to the scene of the blaze.

ONE CHANGE MADE

The Consolidated School Board held a meeting Friday evening and one of the things to come before the meeting was the hiring of janitors for the ensuing year. Only one change was made. That was the naming of Mort Acord to succeed Oscar Obenchain at the First Ward building.

Charles Brown and William McGaughey returned from Ft. Benjamin Harrison today where they have been for the past month.

SHAKAMARK IS CHOSEN FOR 4-H CLUB CAMP

PUTNAM COUNTY MEMBERS WILL SPEND FOUR DAYS AT STATE PARK

TO HOLD CAMP IN AUGUST

Camp Site Located Near Coalmont,
Many Local Club Members Expected To Attend.

Camp Shakamak, near Coalmont, a new Indiana state park located at the junction of three counties, will be the site of the annual district 4-H club camp which Putnam county 4-H club members will attend for four days in August, according to definite announcement made Saturday by county agent E. W. Baker.

Enrollment of the local 4-H club members who will attend the camp is now being taken by the county agent. Putnam county members will attend either August 6-10 or August 10-14, the exact dates to be chosen later.

The camp fee to club members is $3.00, plus a small transportation cost by school bus. No other expense is involved, enabling club members to have a splendid outing at slight cost.

Officials in charge of the camp include county agents from all the counties of the fifth district, state club leaders from Purdue university and local club leaders.

Club camp members are being sent notices asking that enrollment cards be filled out and returned before July 24 and pointing out the equipment needed for the camp.

Camp Shakamak is one of the newer state parks and includes various buildings for camping and a body of water with a five-mile shore line. The district club camps heretofore have been held at Camp Merom, near Merom, Ind.

Fire May Bring Better Equipment

CITY FIREMEN HANDICAPPED
BY INADEQUATE LADDERS AND HOSE NOZZLES.

As a result of the disastrous fire in north Greencastle Sunday night, the Greencastle Fire department may soon be better equipped to cope with big fires.

A representative of a fire equipment company brought a new type hose nozzle here Saturday which is handled by one man and will throw a stream of water from 300 to 600 feet. This nozzle also can be placed inside a burning building and will rotate, throwing water in all directions. Had it been available Sunday night it could have been used to scatter burning lumber piles with the force of the water. Present hose and nozzle equipment in use require from two to four men to hold them when full pressure is applied.

A demonstration of the nozzle was held on the DePauw campus about 11 o'clock in the presence of Mayor W. L. Denman and the city council. Two lines of hose were attached to the nozzle, which was mounted on a light truck, and the nozzle was used to play a stream of water over Meharry hall. Water from the hose also was projected a distance of a city block. Additional ladders to reach high buildings in Greencastle are also being considered, it was said.

Water Company workmen were still pumping water into the city standpipe Saturday attempting to get the pressure back to normal. Pressure Saturday morning stood at a little better than 50 pounds, almost twenty pounds under normal.

Letters of commendation have been sent fire departments at Brazil and Crawfordsville and Indianapolis. Both Brazil and Crawfordsville sent fire fighting equipment here while two Indianapolis firemen stopped here and gave splendid aid in fighting the fire. The city will probably reimburse these fire departments for the aid given.

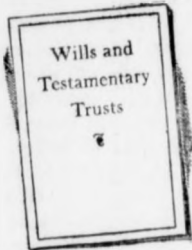

CLOVERDALE TEACHER RESIGNS POSITION

Miss Ellen McGinnahan, teacher of English and physical training in the Cloverdale schools, has resigned her position to accept a teaching position at Hammond for the coming year. The vacancy created by the resignation of Miss McGinnahan has not yet been filled, it was said.

The American Legion Band will practice Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. All members expected to be present.

CITIZENS TRUST COMPANY
AND
THE FIRST NATIONAL BANKBROTHERS HAVE
600 ACRES LAND
IN PUTNAM CO.HUTCHESON BROTHERS FEAT-URED IN ARTICLE IN INDIANA
FARMER GUIDE

The three Hutcheson brothers of Putnam county are featured in an unusual article entitled, "What's Mine Is Yours," by Lewis P. East, which appears in the current issue of the Indiana Farmer's Guide. The article follows:

"Seldom do we find such an example of cooperation as exists with the three Hutcheson brothers operating farms in Putnam county, Indiana. Some 600 acres of land are owned by these brothers, approximately 200 acres of which lie in the river bottom and are farmed, while the rest are in timber or used for grazing. Ever since these brothers were boys, working under their father's guidance, they have been partners in everything.

"Dan is the eldest, then there is Philip and Charles. All operate different farms though each one owns a third interest in all the others. They have a joint bank account for their business; any one of the three can write a check and sign his name. After all expenses are paid at the end of the year, a settlement is made and each brother takes a share of the profits. Hogs and cattle have been the chief enterprise of these farmers. They have raised pure-bred Duroc Jersey hogs for nearly 30 years and up until a little over nine years ago they made a practice of buying feeder cattle and fattening them out. At one time they had a pure-bred Hereford bull and kept a few grade cows.

"In 1921, however, they purchased three pure-bred Polled Shorthorn heifers and a pure-bred bull of the same breed. During the past nine years they have built up a splendid herd of pure-breds including 15 cows and heifers of breeding age and about 15 head of young animals. All of the steers and poorer heifers have been fattened out and sold each year.

"The calves are dropped on all the farms, the men usually trying to have them come in April and May. Cows and calves are grazed during the summer, and in the fall the calves are taken to Philip's farm where they are wintered. The yearlings are taken to Dan's farm where there is a silo and they are fattened out on silage, grain and hay; and the cows are put here and there over all the farms. They are roughed through the winter just as cheaply as possible. During the summer grass is depended upon entirely for the cattle. No effort is made to force them along with feed. The Hutchesons say that their land could not be used otherwise, so why not put cattle on it and let them glean all they can. Their experience has been that this produces beef very cheaply.

"Most of the pigs are fattened on Philip's farm. The fall ones are then divided and placed with Dan and Charles where they are fattened out. All spring pigs are fattened out in the fall on Charles' place. Soy beans are planted with the corn here and the pigs are turned in to hog off the crop. A small lot of clover pasture is also provided for them. About 180 pigs are being carried now. It is their aim to keep around 12 to 14 brood sows. They usually have about two cars of hogs and one of cattle for market every year. They have their own shipping pens on the traction line and everything goes to the Indianapolis market.

"All implements are owned in common and some of them are traded around from farm to farm. These men can double up on certain field operations and complete the work in a short time. If there is hay to be cut, maybe all three will bring mowers and go to work on it. The significant thing is that each member of the partnership is his own boss and yet each member, by his third interest in the other farms, is sufficiently interested in their success not to want to interfere with anything that is for their welfare. One extra man is hired all the time, and in certain seasons they may hire extra labor.

"Even though the past few years have been discouraging to many farmers, one can tell from the attitude of these men that they are not complaining and have made some money in spite of conditions. Last year they were able to show a satisfactory profit considering conditions, though, of course they did not do nearly so well as in previous years.

"They have their own ideas about how things are going to right themselves. Philip says we must take part of our marginal land out of cultivation and put it to hay and pasture. Brother Dan is a strong advocate for holding down unnecessary expenses, and Charles says that one thing sure must be done and that is to readjust taxation so that the farmer will get some relief along that line. Needless to say, all these opinions are shared by each of the brothers.

"What's mine is yours" seems to be the attitude of these three brothers in regard to one another. Aside from their personal bank accounts and personal belongings, everything is owned in common. They even have automobiles alike. Men of this caliber are interesting to meet and it is especially gratifying to see such men making a success of farming."

FEAR MOB VIOLENCE

WATSEKA, Ill., July 18 (UP)—Fearing mob violence, officials of Iroquois and Ford Counties maintained a heavy guard today about the Watseka jail where they were holding three bandits who robbed a bank at Buckley, killed a deputy sheriff, and were captured after one of the most exciting man hunts in the history of eastern Illinois.

The men held were Joseph Mulchowski, 32, Chicago; Pierce J. Lanigan, 38, New York; and Edward "Jake" Byrnes, 32, New York. Mulchowski and Byrnes were wounded by a posse. Mulchowski was identified as the actual slayer of deputy sheriff Henry Innew, 45, who was shot down as he stood, helpless, with his hands in the air, his empty revolver at his feet where he had dropped it in token of surrender.

Longer Detours
On Roads 36 & 43PAVING OPERATIONS RESULT IN CLOSING OF STATE HIGH-WAYS NORTH OF HERE

Longer detours have been placed in effect on both United States road 36 and state road 43, north of Greencastle, as the result of advanced paving operations on both roads.

Traffic on U. S. road 36 is being detoured from Rockville to a point one and one-half miles east of the intersection of road 43, a distance of twenty-nine and one-half miles.

On state road 43 traffic is being detoured from Crawfordville to a point one mile north of Greencastle, a distance of thirty-two miles, with twenty-one miles of the detour paved.

Pavement is being laid at the rate of one-fourth mile a day on both roads. On U. S. road 36 pavement has been laid from the Hollandsburg bridge east past Morton. After the east end of the pavement has been completed, the paving equipment will be taken back to the Hollandsburg bridge and the concrete will be laid west toward Rockville. On road 43 pavement has been laid from Racoon to a point north of Lapland and is rapidly approaching Crawfordville. Grading operations in preparation for the pavement also has been started on the section south of Racoon.

Miss Kathryn Miller, deputy county auditor, and her brother, Clifford Miller, of Indianapolis, left Saturday morning for a ten-day motor trip to Washington, D. C., and New York City.

Prof. William Hargrave, former instructor of political science in De Pauw university was here Friday. Professor Hargrave is now connected with the college branch of the McMillan book firm in New York City.

Flossie Townsend, colored, 702 south Indiana street, was taken to the City Hospital in Indianapolis Friday for treatment of anemia. She has been ill for some time, according to Dr. John A. Egan, the attending physician.

Mrs. Harry Snyder, of Washington D. C., and Mrs. Lulu McCamack, of Greencastle, have returned to their homes after a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Lee and Mr. and Mrs. Cleo H. Crone, near Eminence.—Martinsville Reporter.

Jos. Allerdice and Company filed suit in the Putnam circuit court Saturday against F. C. Collings and Maude Collings, to collect an alleged unpaid note of $218, due in 1921. A demand of $400 is made. Fred V. Thomas is attorney for the plaintiff.

Short funeral services for Mrs. Sam Walts, who died, Friday morning will be held from the home on south College avenue, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Crescent Rebekah lodge of Greencastle and W. R. C. of Danville will have charge at the cemetery at Danville.

For an hour and a half the city was without water this morning due to the fact that a transformer at the sedimentation basin burned out and it was sometime before another one could be connected up so that water could be turned back into the city mains.—Bedford Times.

Clyde Martin, west Franklin street, who was overcome by heat while unloading a car on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks this week, was able to be downtown Saturday. Mr. Martin said Saturday that his experience had left him weakened and unable to stand the present heat.

Henry Koessler of Greencastle, was appointed administrator of the estate of Charles McAllister, who died May 2, in the Putnam Circuit court Friday. The deceased left personal property valued at $1,250, according to the application for letters of administration. He was survived by the widow and six children.

A Ford coach driven by Robert Brinkman of Indianapolis was badly wrecked this morning when he was crowded off the road near the Charles Broadstreet farm east of town. Brinkman escaped uninjured but the car was badly damaged. The car turned over on its right side throwing the body out of line and mashing three fenders.

Bruce Lane of Monroe township reports a record yield of wheat that is unusually good for Putnam county this year. He had 70 acres in more than one tract and the total yield was 2400 bushels. Wheat has also gone up in price during the past few days and is now said to be selling at 40 cents whereas it was only 37 cents before. Albert Balch, another Monroe township farmer had a high yield from a 15 acre tract. It yielded 27 bushels per acre. This particular tract had not been fertilized prior to being sowed in wheat.

Howard Dirks Will Wed

Indianapolis Girl Tonight
The wedding of Miss Miriam Brown, daughter of Mrs. John A. Brown of Indianapolis and Howard M. Dirks, son of Dean and Mrs. Louis H. Dirks, East Washington street, Greencastle, will take place this evening at 8 o'clock at the Irvington Presbyterian church at Indianapolis. Miss Brown's attendants will be her sister, Mrs. Joseph J. Cripe, matron of honor and Miss Marion Corya and Miss Louis Wiggins as bridesmaids.

Mrs. Evans Will Be Hostess

To Monday Book Club
The Monday Book Club will meet Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. P. G. Evans, 427 East Anderson street.

Recent Bride Honored

With Shower, Friday
Mrs. Harold Collins, formerly, Miss Ann Ham, was honored Friday evening, with a miscellaneous shower, at her home on West Berry street, by the Misses, Helen Hutcheson, Mildred Fowlard, Mildred Hammond, Bernadine and Ruth Knight. The bride received many beautiful and useful gifts. Fifty guests were present.

Mrs. Richards Hostess To

Keystone Bible Class
Twenty members and three guests were present to enjoy the hospitality of the genial hostess, Mrs. R. E. Richards, east Franklin street, when the Keystone Bible class of the Methodist church, met at her home Friday afternoon. "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" was the opening song. Mrs. Omer Beck had charge of the devotions and read from the Book of David, with all joining in the Lord's prayer. Miss Vera Grace Wass delightfully entertained with two readings, "In the Morning Glow" and "The Book Agent."

In keeping with the subject of the afternoon, the roll call response was "My Favorite Flower."

The lawn of the Richards home was an ideal setting for the afternoon's subject, "Indiana Trees and Flowers" and was presented very interestingly by Mrs. J. E. Courtney, followed by a general discussion of native trees.

The guests included Miss Flora Vandam, dean of women at Upland college, Upland, who is spending her vacation with her sister, Mrs. Richards and her mother; Miss Vera Grace Wass, of Davenport, Iowa, who is here visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seller and Miss Virginia Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Williams.

During the social hour the hostess served delightful summer refreshments and was assisted by Miss Etta Adams and Miss Vandam.

Picnic Friday
Twenty-five members and guests of the Baptist Young People's Union enjoyed a picnic at Handy's Woods, south of town Friday evening. The evening was spent in playing games.

U-Tri 4-H Club

Met Friday
The U-Tri 4-H club met Friday afternoon at the home of Pauline and Ruth Cleo on west Washington street. There were thirteen members present and one guest. Pauline Cleo and Edna Cox gave a demonstration. The girls sewed and then games were played and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held at the home economics department July 24.

THREATENS CAMERAMEN

EL PASO, Tex., July 18, (UP)—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of interior, today held the threat of a shotgun over cameramen who are seeking to photograph him as he leaves to serve a prison sentence at Santa Fe, N. M.

Police, called to the Fall home last night after a disturbance, reported they found the former secretary in pajamas as usual, sitting in his room with a shotgun across his knees. The officers were called by Mrs. Fall after an unidentified photographer was alleged to have thrown a stone and struck Mrs. C. C. Chase, Fall's daughter who said she unknowingly turned a hose on a camera concealed behind a fig tree.

County commissioners J. G. Britton and M. E. Cooper, county superintendent of roads George Walker, and county surveyor Orville O'Neal, were in Martinsville Saturday morning, where commissioners of the two counties were scheduled to hold a hearing on a county line road. The hearing was continued until July 29, it was said.

Lesson for July 19

SOCIAL SERVICE IN THE EARLY CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 4:32-35; 6:1-4.
GOLDEN TEXT—I have shewed you all things, how that so laboring ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Sharing With Friends.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Sharing With Friends.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christians Sharing With Others.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Generosity of the Early Christians.

Social service as such was not a department of church activity. However, the early church was most ready to discharge its social obligations. Members of the body of Christ are sympathetically related.

I. Characteristics of the Early Church (Acts 4:31-35).

1. It was a praying church (v. 31). These early Christians for every need betook themselves to God in prayer.
2. It was a Spirit-filled church (v. 31). When they prayed, the place wherein they were gathered together was shaken and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit.
3. It was a church with a bold testimony (v. 31). The ministers of the early church did not offer any apology for the Bible, but expended their energy in fearlessly preaching it.
4. It was a united church (v. 32). They were all of one heart and soul.
5. It was a generous church (v. 32). They held nothing back from those who had need.
6. Its ministers had a powerful testimony (v. 33).
7. Its members had an unblemished character (v. 33).

II. Appointment of Deacons (Acts 6:1-4).

1. The occasion (v. 1). The church was threatened with disruption over suspected partiality in the distribution of alms. The Grecians felt discriminated against in that their widows were neglected in the "daily ministrations."
2. The issue met (vv. 2-6). A congregational meeting was called, the case placed before the church, and the church instructed to select seven men of good report, filled with the Holy Spirit and wisdom to administer the temporalities of the church, leaving the apostles freedom for prayer and the ministry of God's Word.
3. The ministry of the deacons (v. 7). They looked after the poor, but while distributing alms, they were witnessing for Christ. Social service is a by-product of Christianity and not Christianity itself.

III. The Raising of Dorcas (Acts 9:36-39).

1. Her ministry (v. 36 Cf. v. 38). Her life was full of good works, such as making coats and garments for the poor. Her noble ministry has set in motion countless numbers of needles, and has given incentive to many noble women to follow her example. The good deeds were not merely those which she intended to do, but "which she did."
2. Her death (v. 37). In the midst of a life full of good works she was overtaken by death.
3. Peter sent for (v. 38). In their distress the disciples sent two men urgently to request Peter to come to them. Having heard of the healing of Aeneas at Lydda, which was near, they no doubt believed that he could restore Dorcas to life.
4. Dorcas raised (vv. 39-41). In answer to Peter's prayer Dorcas was "presented alive to the saints and widows."
5. The effect (v. 42). So astounding was this miracle that "many believed in the Lord."

IV. Ministering to the Saints (II Cor. 9:1-7).

The saints in need were Christians at Jerusalem. Many were impoverished because of embracing Christianity. Sending money to the saints at Jerusalem was an expression of affection on the part of these Gentile Christians for the Jews. As an incentive to giving Paul shows:

1. That the volume of reaping is based upon the volume of sowing (v. 6).
2. There should be a heart purpose (v. 7). This calls for intelligence as to the object in giving.
3. Giving should not be of necessity (v. 7). No particular value accrues to the giver who only responds under pressure.
4. God loves a cheerful giver (v. 7). Right understanding of responsibility toward God with reference to temporal possessions will make giving a glorious privilege.

All Who Come

Christ saveth unto the uttermost all who come unto God by him; and it is best to leave Christ to determine where the uttermost lies. What is impossible with men is easy to omnipotent grace.—W. L. Watkinson.

As the Angels Give

If instead of a gem or even a flower, we could cast the gift of a lovely thought in the heart of a friend, that would be giving as the angels give.—George MacDonald.

Limedale. The Rev. and Mrs. O. A. Kline and Rev. Feick of Indianapolis will conduct the services. They have conducted a very interesting and impressive revival and Bible study at Cloverdale.

The Rev. Feick plans to conduct the Bible study each afternoon during the revival at Limedale.

Rev. Kline will open the service at Limedale this evening and go back to Cloverdale Sunday evening to close that service, while Rev. Feick will have charge of the service at Limedale.

Mrs. Grace Black has been kind enough to lend her large tent to these evangelists for the purpose of conducting these services.

Rev. and Mrs. Kline held a two weeks revival in Greencastle about a month ago and was well attended.

Rev. Kline will have a very inspiring message from the word of God each night for the next two weeks.

Grocery Store Robber Killed

GROCER FIRES AT BANDIT ATTEMPTING TO CUT SCREEN DOOR WIRE

INDIANAPOLIS, July 18 (UP)—A butcher knife bandit's second attempt to rob a grocery store here cost him his life. The man, identified as Earl Beals, 42, Indianapolis, was slain by his intended victim while giving a command to "Stick up your hands."

Benjamin Sherrod, 34, was the robber's intended victim. He told police he was in the rear of the store when he heard the screen being cut from the door. He obtained a pistol and fired as the bandit ordered him to raise his hands. The robber died instantly.
Sherrod identified the man as one who had robbed him June 13. Police said Beals was armed only with a butcher knife.

County Farmers Storing, Feeding 31 Wheat Crop

REFUSE TO SELL GRAIN AT 37 CENTS A BUSHEL BEING PAID IN GREENCASTLE

Scores of Putnam County farmers are refusing to sell their newly threshed wheat to elevators at the prevailing low prices. Wheat brought only 37 cents a bushel for No. 2 grade at local elevators this week.

Hog raisers are storing the wheat to feed to the animals. With swine bringing $7 a hundred pounds, the farmers figure that they can gain a small profit by feeding it to them, especially in view of the fact that the grain is considered the equal of corn as a fattening agent. Corn is selling for approximately ten cents a bushel more than wheat at the present time.

A number of farmers are storing their wheat to await a rise in price. However, it is possible for only a limited number to do so as the storage capacity of granaries in this part of the country is usually small. It is believed that if more storage space were available in the country, that far more farmers would hold their grain for the inevitable rise in price at a later date.

Elevator men said Wednesday morning that they have also heard of numerous instances where wheat growers are disposing of their corn to other farmers for feed rather than to bring it to the elevators. The purchasers intend using the grain for stock feed.

It is pointed out that a large number of farmers are so badly in need of ready cash that it is necessary for them to sell their wheat to pay pressing obligations and to purchase the necessities of life. It is said that many who otherwise would have stored their wheat or have fed it to stock have been forced to sell so as to have money to pay for the threshing of the grain.

The wheat crop in Putnam county this year is said to be the largest in many years. According to elevator officials, the average yield for the county will be a fraction over 30 bushels to the acre. A few yields of 45 bushels and one of 50 bushels to the acre have been reported.

The quality of the wheat also is said to be exceptionally good. Much of the grain being sold this week has been of No. 2 grade and little has dropped below the No. 2 grading. The grain is almost equal in quality to that of the excellent crop last year.

Cutting of oats also is in progress in the county. This crop was damaged to some extent by the long heat wave of a few weeks ago and the yield will be somewhat below normal, it is said.

A number of farmers were seen Wednesday morning cutting their oats with mowers, preparatory to storing it for use as hay. Those who are doing so say that they believe they will gain more by using the oats as hay than they would at selling the crop at 17 cents a bushel, the price quoted by local elevators Wednesday morning.

HOLLYWOOD FILM SHOP

HOLLYWOOD Calif., (UP)—Summer gossip along Hollywood Boulevard—

Gary Cooper and Lupe Valez have been secretly married for more than a year.

Gary Cooper and Lupe Valez never will be married.

Take your choice.

Adolphe Menjou carries a silver cigarette case engraved: "To Menjou from his greatest admirer." The case was presented by Menjou to himself.

Officials of a certain studio were extremely wrathful when it was suggested that the brother of a handsome star was paid $100,000 to "keep out of pictures." However, in more than a year, the brother has not appeared in a film.

One of Hollywood's leading women writers and one of the most radiant of the current crop of starlets have not spoken since publication of one of the writer's recent articles.

If Jim Tully, the hobo-writer, and John Gilbert, actor, should meet in a cafe, let us say tonight, there would not be another fight. They no longer have a "mad on" after their now famous tilt in the Brown Derby.

Ina Claire, Jack's estranged wife, admits she "had all she could do to keep from laughing" when she witnessed the Tully-Gilbert mix.

A better and bigger fight than that recently came off in an exclusive night club. Two Hollywood beauties, Ina Claire, Jack's estranged wife, and "imitated" the other beauty and "smack" the battle was on. The manager of the night club and all principals were "out of town" for several days thereafter and refused to confirm rumors of the disturbance.

DEPRESSION HITS DOGDOM
PHILADELPHIA, (UP)—Dogdom is hard hit by the industrial depression, according to reports from the Animal Rescue League Shelter. With many persons out of work, hundreds of dogs are being turned loose to shift for themselves, officials of the shelter announce. With about 50 animals awaiting adoption, which is twice the number usually on hand, the league is making every effort to find them homes.

ROME TO OFFER HOMES TO CHAMPION FAMILIES

ROME, (UP)—To encourage Benito Mussolini's campaign for larger Italian families, the city of Rome has decided to offer six annual prizes for five years to the largest and most-deserving Roman families.

The prizes will be suitable cottages, or houses, to quarter the worthy family. The houses cannot be either sold or rented. The first awards will be made in 1932.

U. S. GIRLS SEEK JOBS IN FRANCE

PARIS, (UP)—According to Leo J. Kenna, of the United States consulate general in Paris, American girls are exhibiting a greater spirit of adventure than American boys in seeking to secure full or part-time jobs in the French capital.

"They all seem to think," said Kenna, "that life is unusually glamorous here and that work is easy to find. They are all motivated by a spirit of adventure, and many of them want to leave their good jobs at home and come over here on the faintest prospect of getting something to do. The deplorable truth, in most cases, is that the young women have just enough money for a one-way ticket."

As fast as these letters pour into the American consulate—and they are increasing every day—they are answered courteously but firmly, stating that work of this kind is practically an impossibility. The labor office here has shut the lid down tight, giving that employment is to be offered to their own out-of-work citizens first. Later, if there are extra jobs to spare, they will loosen the rigidity of the present ruling.

"Since April 1," continued Kenna, "I have received letters from more than eighty localities, ranging from rural towns to the largest cities in the United States, and the same is true of the consulate offices in London, Berlin, Rome and other European capitals. In fairness to these people, the majority of whom are girls and women, we make a desperate effort to discourage them."

WORK FOILS JAIL BREAKS

HARRISBURG, Pa., (UP)—Pennsylvania prisoners are too tired to riot, according to State Welfare Secretary John L. Hanna, who attributes hard work for the prisoners as the most effective deterrent to prison outbreaks.

Hanna said that 878 men in four state institutions are regularly employed at trades for which they are fitted. Others are given temporary work or are used on projects at the work or are used on construction projects at the prisons.

While contending that overcrowding has been a leading cause of riots in other states and that Pennsylvania temporarily faces similar conditions pending construction of the new Eastern Penitentiary, Hanna held the prison work program is balancing the overcrowded condition to keep disturbances among prisoners to a minimum.

"Eight hours a day of healthful, hard labor keeps a man close to normal life and leaves him comfortably tired at night with little inclination to conspire for rioting," Hanna said.

"Nothing, however, can be said to be a sure preventative."

WISCONSIN ANTHROPOLOGIST

SEEKS SECRETS OF OLD RACE
SILVER CITY, N. M., (UP)—Secrets of the ancient Mimbres, a race which lived on the upper Mimbres river some 2,000 years ago, are being sought by Paul Nesbitt, anthropologist of the Logan Museum, Beloit college, Beloit, Wis.

He has returned to the Bert S. Matlock ranch, a mile south of the Mimbres post office, where he previously has made excavations.

During previous excavations, he discovered a one-story apartment containing 120 rooms, and found more than 200 bowls and 200 skeletons.

Three distinct periods of immigration by these primitive peoples into the Mimbres regions are revealed by Nesbitt's excavations. First period houses are constructed entirely underground. The home of the second period rise halfway above the surface of the ground, and the final period finds the race living in houses that are located above the ground.

NAVAL EXPERTS STUDY DIESELS FOR WARSHIPS

U. S. MAY EQUIP ONE NEW VESSEL WITH GERMAN ENGINE

WASHINGTON, July 18, (UP)—American naval experts have agreed tentatively on plans calling for use of Diesel engines in at least one new warship.

Installation of these oil-burning motors would mark another step in a new naval policy designed to match foreign improvements and increase the effectiveness of the U. S. fleet, while keeping within the limitations of the disarmament treaties.

This general policy of increased effectiveness without increase in size is described by navy tacticians as the substitution of "quality for quantity" in the race for naval supremacy. With the navies of the world limited in size by treaties, a premium has been placed on efficiency.

The Germans were the first to combine the new naval technique in one ship. Their newest cruiser is a light, fast, well protected ship, driven by powerful Diesel motors, which make the vessel practically independent of naval bases.

The American naval experts have been working effectively along the same lines as evidenced in the new so-called "10,000 ton treaty cruisers," which have been given heavier armor, yet will have a displacement nearer 9,000 than 10,000 tons.

It is not planned to equip these vessels with the Diesels, which give the German ships such a phenomenal cruising range.

However, members of the Navy General Board are said to be thoroughly convinced that Diesel engine is desirable because of economy, efficiency and low fuel consumption, which adds greatly to cruising range, and greater safety factors through the absence of vulnerable boilers.

The new aircraft carrier Ranger, now building at Newport News, Va., may be the first American naval vessel of any considerable size to be equipped with Diesel machinery. Such a step is being considered.

FRENCH POPULATION DOWN

PARIS, July 18 (UP)—The population of France fell off 34,679 during the first four months of 1931, according to statistics by the govern. The report shows 190,809 births and 225,483 deaths, with a similar decrease of marriages. Last year there was a net increase of 10,000 in population during the corresponding period.

NOTICE TO ROAD CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given by the Board of Commissioners of the County of Putnam, State of Indiana, that sealed bids will be received up to twelve o'clock, noon, on Monday, August 3rd, 1931, for the improving and the construction of the B. F. Jones, et al road in Warren township, Putnam County, Indiana.

Said road to be constructed of crushed limestone and estimated to cost $7,825.00.

Said road is to be constructed in accordance with the plans, profile and specifications therefor, and now on file in the County Auditor's office of said county, at Greencastle, Indiana, and which are now open for the inspection of bidders.

Each bid submitted shall be accompanied by a bond equal to double of the amount of the bid submitted, conditioned as provided by law for the faithful performance of said work.

If a personal bond is given, the same shall have not less than one freehold voter of Putnam County, as a surety thereon.

Each bidder shall submit with his bid and bond a non-collusion affidavit as required by law.

Before the closing of the contract the successful bidder will be required to file with the auditor a certificate from the Industrial Board of Indiana, showing that such bidder has complied with the Workmen's Compensation Law of Indiana, for the protection of his workmen.

The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to discriminate between bidders, and all bids submitted must be filed with that understanding.

The time for the completion of the contract will be agreed upon by the board and the successful bidder at the time the contract is awarded.

Done by the order of the Board of Commissioners, this 3rd day of July, 1931.

M. E. Cropper,
J. G. Britton,
H. A. Sherrill,
Board of Commissioners.

July 11-18-25.
Attest: W. E. Gill, County auditor.

CANDIDATES AT C. M. T. C. COMMAND PLATOONS

FT. HARRISON, Ind., July 17.—Candidates of the Citizens' Military Training Camp here have been selected for command of the platoons in the various organizations in camp, it was announced today. They will command their units until the final day of camp, at which times these young trainers, all of whom are blue course candidates, or fourth year men, will command their units. Previous to their appointment reserve officers of the United States army have been in command of the platoons. Their appointment as platoon commanders indicate that they are excellent leaders, and will, in all probability, be appointed in officers reserve corps of the regular army.

Candidate Elmer W. Evans, Greencastle R. R. 2, has been appointed platoon leader in Company D. He has made application for appointment in the infantry branch of the reserve corps, according to an announcement made this week.

DETROIT WANTS PARTY MEETINGS

DETROIT, July 17, (UP)—Detroit, the nation's fourth largest city, will bid for both the Republican and Democratic 1932 national conventions.

While no formal applications have been filed with the parties' national committees, the matter has been discussed with Republican and Democratic leaders, who are pushing "our cause from the inside," according to J. Lee Barrett, director of the Detroit convention and tourist bureau.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Grand Rapids, and Mrs. Bina Miller, of Port Huron, Michigan's woman representative on the Republican national committee have been making overtures in G. O. P. circles, Barrett revealed.

Horatio J. Abbott, of Ann Arbor, Democratic national committeeman, and William J. Constock, former committeeman, have been similarly active on the Democratic side, Barrett said. Barrett estimated that $125,000 would be needed to land either convention.

MOVIES

AT THE GRANADA

"The Easiest Way," which will show at the Granada Sunday and Monday, is an adaptation of the sensational Eugene Walter stage play, considered one of the immortal classics of the American stage. Jack Conway directed the production.

Laura Murdock (Constance Bennett) is striving to rise out of the squalid poverty in which she was born. She accepts a job as model in an advertising agency, which takes her out of the department store in which she started. She attracts the attention of Brockton (Adolphe Menjou), head of the agency.

Later, when she visits her sister Peg (Anita Page), she is told to get out of the house by Nick, Peg's husband (Clark Gable).

She travels west with Brockton as his "secretary." In the west she meets and falls in love with Madison (Robert Montgomery), a young newspaper man, who leaves immediately for the Argentine. She promises to wait for him. She gives up Brockton, but weeks pass and she does not hear from Madison. He succumbs to economic urge and again sees Brockton.

Madison returns, and in her joy, Laura breaks a promise to Brockton, and does not tell her lover of her true relations with the head of the ad agency. A scene ensues between the three which carries the play to its surprising climax.

ANOTHER WEEKLY PAPER

COVINGTON, July 17 (UP)—A weekly paper, the third in Covington, will make its appearance soon, according to Lloyd Webb, who will be the publisher.

Ira Blackstock Sells Railroad

WIDELY KNOWN DEPAUW MAN AND ASSOCIATES SELL A FAMOUS RAILROAD "SYSTEM"

The magazine "Time" in its July issue has an interesting short story on the sale of a railroad system which started with the building of only a few miles of line by Ira Blackstock and his associates. Mr. Blackstock is deeply interested in DePauw university and the sale may have a direct bearing on the local institution in a financial way, as it is understood that Mr. Blackstock has contributed liberally to DePauw. "Time" says of the railroad sale:

PANHANDLERS

A railroad brings prestige to a community. It may also bring prosperity by carrying to market what the community produces. So in 1912 the citizens of Forgan, at the entrance of the wheat-rich Oklahoma Panhandle, were glad when the Wichita Falls & Northwestern (now part of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas) chose their town for a terminus. And the folk of Beaver, the county seat seven miles to the south, were chagrined because railroadless Beaver was outdone. They pooled their wheat receipts, hired a teamster at $4 a day, graded the land by eye, and started a railroad to Forgan. Before half of the seven miles was finished they found their capital gone.

Up in Hardtner, just across the Kansas line, lived two farmers, Jacob Achenback and Ira B. Blackstock. When Hardtner had been left railroadless by the Missouri Pacific these two men had built a railroad to Kiowa, ten miles away. Their fame as railroad builders had spread. The farmers of Beaver called upon them for help. Soon the Beaver, Meade & Englewood Railroad Co. had a train running. But profits were hard to get, and in 1918 Carl J. Turpin of Oklahoma City, an ex-railroader, was called in as general manager. He soon had things shipshape along the seven mile right of way, cheerfully worked without salary. In 1924 the road was extended 20 miles westward, it terminus called "Turpin." Two years later the B. M. & E. went further west to Hooker where it crossed the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific tracks, then on to Hough. This gave it 65 mile of track. Last year it pressed on an other 40 miles to reach the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe tracks at Keyes.

During this period of expansion Vive President Blackstock moved to Springfield, Ill.; President Achenback began to feel old. Railroads which had refused to enter the territory themselves began to want the B. M. & E. Last week its officials met in their small Oklahoma City office, completed a deal whereby the M-K-T will get the road and equipment (three locomotives, 12 box cars, two section cars, two cabooses) for about $2,300,000. This estimated $3-year-old President Achenback, compares to a cost of $2,100,000, a profit of about $200 a mile.

OFFICIALS BREAK LAW
County officials who have been taking Saturday afternoons off have been doing so illegally—except in four counties—according to Clarence E. Edwards, deputy attorney general. The law provides for Saturday half holidays in county seats which have populations of more than 100,000. Only Indianapolis, South Bend, Fort Wayne and Evansville come within provisions of the law.

LINTON, July 17 (UP)—Whether Jerry Clayton, Linton assistant postmaster, is a member of the exclusive Hole-in-One club is being debated here.
Clayton, an ardent golfer, teed off on No. 1 hole on the American Legion course here. The ball headed straight for the pin, but as it neared the green it struck a tree, glanced over to No. 3 green and rolled into the cup.

Monon Train Kills Four At Bedford

ACCIDENT OCCURRED THREE MILES NORTH OF BEDFORD
LATE FRIDAY

BEDFORD, July 18.—A south bound Monon train killed four people at a crossing three miles north of here late Friday afternoon, when an automobile was driven onto the tracks ahead of the locomotive.

The dead are: Mrs. Alma Beasley, 26 years old; Mary Gladys Beasley, 5, her daughter; Mrs. Sylvia Winnegar, 45; Henry A. Todd, 85, father of Mrs. Beasley.

Mrs. Beasley was driving her father home after a visit at the Beasley farm. All were killed instantly except Mr. Todd, who died a short after being admitted at the Dunn memorial hospital here.

Mrs. Beasley apparently drove on to the unobstructed crossing without hearing the train. The train did not stop and station attendants here said the crew was not aware of the tragedy. The automobile approached from the fireman's side and it is believed he was firing the locomotive as the train came up grade and did not see the car.

Surviving Mrs. Beasley are her husband, Clyde Beasley; her mother and a brother. Mrs. Winnegar leaves her husband, Lemmon Winnegar, and five children, and Mr. Todd leaves the widow. All live in this vicinity.

WORLD FAMINE BANISHED BY GRAIN REAPER

ANNIVERSARY OF MCCORMICK'S INVENTION OCCURS THIS MONTH

CHICAGO, (UP)—The danger of world-wide famine was removed 100 years ago this month.

In a Virginia wheat field in July, 1831, Cyrus Hall McCormick looked back on the first strip of grain ever successfully cut with a mechanical reaper. The first clean swath of wheat served notice on the world that the era of mechanized agriculture had dawned.

It also indicated to the small group of seymen who had gathered to watch the experiment that their occupation of swinging a scythe and cradling was to become a lost art; that the traditional method of grain harvesting, handed down from the ancients, would be swept aside and agricultural methods and extent of acreage revolutionized.

Mccormick patented his reaper three years later, but did not begin marketing it until 1840. A steady stream of improvements were added from the first, making for increased efficiency and practicability.

Acreage of grain had been increased so much by 1861 that Secretary Stanton, head of the war department in President Lincoln's cabinet, declared that Mccormick's invention was of untold value to the northern cause during the Civil war.

Economists have credited the reaper with even greater service to humanity, declaring it has banished forever the fear of a world-wide food shortage, a fear that had existed since Biblical times. Now, far from fearing a shortage of grain, the nations are troubled with grain surpluses.

The surpluses are due, economists say, to the wide use of motorized implements. Mccormick's reaper was capable of only eight or ten acres of grain a day. After that there still remained the problem of threshing. Today huge combines used in the great grain belts of America harvest and thresh 30 to 40 acres a day.

TREE-SITTING CAT QUITS
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., (UP)—A tree-sitting cat spent a week in a tree here without food or water before it was forcibly lowered to the ground.

GIRL OF 12 MARRIED
CORRYTON, Tenn., (UP)—Bertha Mae Brooks, 12, married Samuel Booher, 22, here. Rev. Gus Booher, father of the bridegroom, officiated.

COWBELL REMINDS DRIVERS
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., (UP)—A bottling company here which operates several trucks has attached a cowbell to the key to a warehouse so drivers may be warned not to carry off the key with them to the inconvenience of other drivers.

BIKE RIDES ACCUSED
MT. HOLLY, N. J., (UP)—A mat accused of "drunken driving" on a bicycle topped Burlington county's week-end list of unusual news stories. Frank Davis, the convicted man, was sentenced to four days in the county jail.

MARRIAGE NO TEACHING BAN

RULING MADE AT ANDERSON IN CASES OF OUSTED ELWOOD
TEACHERS

Marriage is no ban to teaching, according to a sweeping decision made at Anderson by Special Judge Alonzo Bales of Winchester in the cases of Mrs. Mattie Griffiths, Mrs. Grace Doerman and Mrs. Mary L. Records, who were dismissed by the school board because they were married.

Judge Bales overruled the demurrer of the school board and found for the teachers, holding that they should be reinstated.

Following action by the school board in dismissing the three teachers because they were married, Oswald Ryan of Anderson, attorney for the teachers, filed suit asking the court to mandate the school board and the school city to reinstate the teachers on grounds that they had committed no act to violate their contract and were entitled to hold their positions under the teachers' tenure law.

Ralph Daily, representing the school board, filed a demurrer to the complaint of the teachers, alleging that the action was out of place and attacking the constitutionality of the tenure law which he termed as class legislation.

In the opinion returned today, the court contended that marriage was a legal contract in which two parties entered and was not grounds for dismissal of the teachers. He held that the teachers' tenure law was constitutional and the fact that the three teachers were married was not sufficient cause of their dismissal from their positions.

Daily filed notice that the case would be taken to the Indiana Appellate court for further hearing and would be made a test case of the right of school boards to cancel contracts with teachers because they were married.

GAS REVEALED AS REASON

FOR DEATH OF FARM PLANTS
PITTSBURGH, (UP)—The battle of Trop Hill has been won by John Wolfram after two years of fighting. His casualties amounted to 120,000 geraniums, hundreds of petunias and acres of vegetables. He figures the war cost him $10,000 and uncounted hours of lost sleep.

Wolfram, for 25 years a flower and truck gardener on Trop Hill, just outside the city, watched his plants die mysteriously after they had been carefully nurtured. He knew his soil and could think of no explanation.

Recently a boy stuck a lead pipe in the ground and left it there when he quit playing. One of Wolfram's employees struck a match to light his cigarette near the pipe a few days later. There was a tiny explosion and for a moment flames burst from the tube.

Workmen began a search and two days later discovered a broken gas main. Without their poison gas the elements are no match for the gardener and his plants.

BRIDGE CONTRACT LET

Additional Locals

Mrs. Hubert Cooper is slowly recovering from a fall which she received two weeks ago Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thomas, Mrs. E. P. Light, Miss Carolyn Ellis and Miss Gertrude Herod will leave Sunday for a two week's visit at Bay View, Mich.

The Misses Maxine and Mary Elizabeth Macy of Danville, Ill., are here on an extended visit with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Cooper and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean Vinzant and son Robert Dean Jr., of Hobart, near Gary, who have been visiting Elder and Mrs. L. H. Athey of this city, will return home Sunday. Elder and Mrs. Athey expect to accompany them home for a short visit. Mr. Vinzant is a foster son of Elder and Mrs. Athey.

CARS ARE WRECKED

Two automobiles were wrecked in a crash at the Indiana State Farm on the National Road Saturday afternoon. A colored party composed of Odie Watson, Leroy Butler, Fannie Churchill, Abbie Watson, Herda Watson and Odie Watson Jr., all of Terre Haute, was in one car, while the other car was occupied by Eugene C. Watson of Indianapolis. Occupants suffered cuts and bruises but no one was seriously hurt.

Deputy Sheriff Edward Eiteljorge was called to the Indiana State Farm to investigate the crash.

Mary Lou Thurston, beautiful orphan, seeks a position in the home of wealthy Mrs. Margaret Lorrimer, when the latter's son, Travers, a shell-shocked war veteran, enters. At sight of Mary Lou he becomes wildly excited, takes her in his arms and calls her "Delight" and "sweet." Later, Mrs. Lorrimer explains that Travers has mistaken Mary Lou for Delight Hartford, whom he claims he married in England, but of whom no record can be found. Mrs. Lorrimer persuades Mary Lou to assume the role of Delight to help Travers regain his health. Travers is told that, as Delight was so young at the time of her marriage and had since thought him dead, they must start all over again. In her first encounter with Travers, Mary Lou plays her part perfectly.

CHAPTER XIX.
REMEMBER a lot," he said somberly, and then, because he saw her wince a little, added, hastily, "If you'd really like to learn to ride, I'll teach you."

She looked at him with her eyes like dark stars. This was the sort of thing she had made up her mind to work for in order to give him some healthy interest, to take him out of himself.

"Would you really? Are you—strong enough?" she said. Inspired question! He began to see himself as he must seem to a healthy, normal girl—not "strong" enough, a semi-invalid! Not a pretty picture. He shrugged the broad, stooped shoulders that, from very pride, he was already holding straighter.

"I'm all right," he answered. "Don't worry about me." They were approaching the house now, and Margaret Lorrimer, a loose tweed coat over her frock, was coming down the steps to meet them. She had been very anxious over the result of this first encounter, this initial step in the carefully laid plans. She greeted them easily enough, but her eyes sought Mary Lou's with a clear enough inquiry into their brown depths. Mary Lou nodded, imperceptibly, and smiled, and Mrs. Lorrimer drew a long breath of relief.

New Life

Lorrimer was questioning his mother with more animation than she had seen in him for years.

"About the horses—Delight wants to ride. I've said I'll teach her—if I haven't forgotten myself," he added, half ruefully. "Have we any mount suitable—something pretty tame to begin with?" he went on, and at Mary Lou's indignant exclamation, he startled himself by laughing. Pretty rusty, that laugh, but it served.

"Flapper," his mother said, thoughtfully, adeptly concealing her own pleasure and astonishment—"I think she'd do—"

"Flapper? Is that the little brown one?" Mary Lou asked. "Well, she doesn't sound awfully tame!"

"She is though. And she's been proven recently enough. I've lent her to Jenny Wynne rather often, when she needed an extra saddle horse. Jenny's a neighbor of ours, a distant relative," she explained to Mary Lou, "and she's always having horse parties and needing to borrow anything from horses to golf balls!"

"If Jenny was suited," began Lorrimer doubtfully, "I question whether Flapper would be a good horse for a beginner."

"I didn't say she was suited," laughed his mother, "but any port in a storm." She looked at her son thoughtfully and added, casually, as if a desire to ride on his part was an everyday occurrence: "Don't Lorenzo would be about up to your weight, I think. I bought him a year or two ago, perhaps you remember, and he's in excellent condition, Masters tells me."

She turned to Mary Lou, her eyes shining.

Nothing Overlooked

"While you were out I telephoned shops and things. One of the saleswomen at—" she mentioned the name of a famous Fifth went with her, Konig, who had by out this afternoon with some ready-to-wear things for you to try on. I'll catch her before she leaves town and tell her to include a riding kit."

Mary Lou tried hard to look demurely accustomed to such service, but her eyes betrayed her. She had overcome her first reluctance, as what normal girl would not, and had given Mrs. Lorrimer her measurements. She wouldn't be hard to fit, being what is known as a perfect 16, and armed with that knowledge, and glove and shoe sizes, Mrs. Lorrimer had simply

"I am." He stifled a yawn and then smiled. "Not very chivalrous, is it?"

"How well do you sleep, anyway?" she demanded, briskly.

"You've changed," he answered irreverently. "You never used to worry about people."

"I'm older," she replied serenely. "Besides, I didn't say I was worried. You go upstairs and take a nap—"

"Governess!" he accused her, amazingly light-hearted.

"Not at all. I want to get rid of you. Your mother's sending the car to the station—see, there it goes! That means frocks and frills. I'll see you at tea time," said Mary Lou, and steered him into the house, protesting every step of the way.

But she managed, and presently Lorrimer cast himself down on the couch in his sitting room and tried to keep his eyes open. But he couldn't. He'd had more fresh air than usual and more exercise, and he was, moreover, tired out with the weight of his conflicting emotions, with the succeeding shocks and astonishments of the gone to a telephone and given certain orders.

The three of them lunched together that day, and while there was sometimes silence, heavy with unspoken questions, Mrs. Lorrimer and Mary Lou managed to keep the conversational ball rolling most of the time.

"Haven't you a perfectly terrible appetite—Lorry?" said Mary Lou to Lorrimer. Mrs. Lorrimer looked from one to the other and observed with astonishment Mary Lou's easy use of the little nickname, unfamiliar to Lorrimer's mother, and his instant, markedly glad, acceptance of it. "I have," she went on. "I'm perfectly ashamed of it, but I can't help it!" and she proceeded to prove her words, leaving Lorrimer vaguely annoyed at his own fastidious "picking" at his luncheon. I now that he came to think of it, he was hungrier than usual, and so demanded a second helping of salad from Peter, to Peter's perfectly obvious delight.

After luncheon Mary Lou insisted upon "walking off" the results of her appetite, and Lorrimer went with her. Konig, who had by now adopted her for his own, at their heels. When they came in, an hour later, Mary Lou looked at her companion gravely.

"You look sleepy!" she accused him.

past day and with the questions which still remained unanswered. One thing was clear enough. The girl he knew had changed. But adorably so. He found, in the presence of the living girl, the memory he had carried fading. He could think only of Delight as she now was, not of Delight as she had been. But the one thing which had not changed was, he knew, his love for her. That remained.

Making Headway

He sighed, impatiently, and relaxed among the cushions of the couch. Delight! His eyes closed and he slept instantly and dreamlessly.

"He's upstairs," Mary Lou told Mrs. Lorrimer, finding her in her own room. "He was half asleep. He hasn't been getting much sleep, I imagine, and no wonder. I think he'll sleep now until, perhaps, tea time."

"You," commented Margaret Lorrimer, "are marvelous!"

"Well, not very. He was fairly staggering when we came back to the house. I walked him pretty briskly, you know. We left Konig waiting and gnashing his teeth at the kennel and came on back to the house. I said I had to try on things, and wanted to get rid of him—Mr. Lorry, I mean, not Konig," she explained hastily.
